Release or Forwarding of Education Records or Data to Third Parties

1. Requests for educational data or information about a student, or former student, usually originate from either the student or from a third party, such as an employer or prospective employer of the student. The law provides that information from education records cannot be released to third parties unless the Institution first has the written consent of the student, or former student to do so.
2. Exceptions to this policy are the following:

In relation to postsecondary institutions, prior consent is not required to disclose personally identifiable information:

- a) To a school official who has a legitimate educational interest.
- b) To schools in which a student seeks or intends to enroll (the institution must make an attempt to notify the student that records are being provided).
- c) To federal, state and local authorities involving an audit or evaluation of compliance with education programs.
- d) In connection with financial aid (such as the administration or continuation of aid).

- e) To individuals or organizations conducting studies for or on behalf of an educational institution.
- f) To regional or professional accreditation organizations.
- g) To parents of a dependent student.
- h) To comply with a judicial order or subpoena. A reasonable effort must be made to notify the student beforehand – unless so ordered by the subpoena not to do so.
- i) In the event of a health or safety emergency where the information is required to resolve the emergency.
- j) That is considered directory information, so long as the student has not requested nondisclosure of this information.
- k) To the student.
- l) That is the result of a disciplinary hearing where the student is the perpetrator of a crime of violence or a non-forcible sex offense. Under this exception, information may be released to anyone, including the media. No information on the victim or witnesses may be released.
- m) Of a student under the age of 21 who has committed a drug or alcohol related offense (e.g., reporting the offense to the parents of the student).

3. Consent to Release

The federal regulations state that the consent must:

- a) Be in writing
- b) Be signed
- c) Be dated
- d) Specify the records or information to be released
- e) Specify the reasons for the release
- f) Specify the names of those to whom the records or information is to be released.

The Authorization to Release Educational Records form is available at www.ucmo.edu/registrar.

- 4. It should be noted that UCM couldn't, therefore, honor a request to send records or information (other than directory information) to a third party unless the proper written consent is first provided to the University. If the student, or former student, requests that records be sent to a third party such as a prospective employer, the student, or former student, should be sure that the request also complies with the requirements of consent to release the records. Those six basic requirements are outlined above.
- 5. If a request is received from a third party seeking information about a student, or former student, and the University does not, at the time, have the student's or former student's consent to release the information to that party, the third party will be so informed.

Waivers

1. Confidential Recommendations

A student may elect to waive his or her right of access to, or right to review:

- a) Confidential statements such as letters of reference for admission to the University.
- b) Confidential statements or references for recommendations to be used in securing employment.
- c) Such confidential statements or letters of recommendation in regard to the receipt of an honor or honorary recognition.

2. Option to Waive Access (i.e., keep references confidential)

The University may not require a student to waive his or her right of access to review such statements or references and the decision to waive such a right should be made according to the student's wishes in the matter.

3. Notice to Reference

Individuals giving references in regard to students are usually notified of the confidentiality or non-confidentiality of their statements according to whether or not the student has waived his or her right of access to such records.

4. Procedure to Waive

In most instances a student will be asked whether he or she wishes such confidential statements or letters of recommendation to be confidential or non-confidential and will be given the opportunity to elect to waive or not to waive his or her right to review the records. If a student has a question in regard to waiver and confidentiality of such recommendations and letters of reference, he should contact the custodian of the records involved.

5. Confidential References Prior to January 1, 1975

The regulations provided that all letters of reference and confidential statements provided to the Institution prior to January 1, 1975, shall remain confidential and not subject to review by the student, or former student.

Amendment of Education Records

1. Request for Amendment of Education Records

A student seeking deletion, alteration, or amendment of an educational record or any part thereof must notify the custodian of the record specifying the record in question and stating the specific reasons for the requested correction and the specific objection to the record as it stands in the file. The request must specify the remedy sought (e.g., deletion of certain items, change in wording, correction in figures or other data).

2. Decision

The custodian will then review the request and grant or deny, in whole or in part, the request; or, in the alternative, may first schedule a conference to discuss the matter with the student, or former student, after which the custodian will then render a decision. The student, or former student, will be sent notification of the decision within two weeks thereafter.

3. Formal Hearing

If all of the above procedures have been completed and the student, or former student, has not received satisfactory relief, he or she may then request a formal hearing.

a) Hearing procedure

The student will have, at the formal hearing, the opportunity to present evidence and argument to a hearing committee in support of his or her contention that the records are inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise inappropriate. The student, or former student, may be assisted by counsel of his or her own choosing if so desired, may present witnesses, will be entitled to cross examination and will have the burden of proof. The institution may present a case in rebuttal with the same aforementioned procedural rights.

b) Initiation of procedure

In order for the student, or former student, to avail himself or herself of the opportunity for a hearing to challenge the contents of a record, the student, or former student, must submit a written appeal to the custodian of records in question and the Registrar. The sole grounds upon which a hearing may be granted are allegations that the records are inaccurate, incorrect or otherwise inappropriate. Any of these alleged grounds must be supported by specifically named reasons or listed on the written appeal.

4. Decision

The committee will then render a decision within two weeks in writing and stating its findings of fact, conclusions and a decision granting or denying the challenge in whole or in part.
