

The Career Services Center reviews employers and job postings prior to being approved on Handshake. However, in today's technological world, job scams are a real threat to job seekers and can be difficult to recognize. They can appear in many different places including online or print advertisements, career websites, Craigslist or even in your email inbox. Ask yourself the below questions before responding to any job posting, online or otherwise.

ARE THE COMPANY NAME AND DETAILS PROVIDED IN THE AD?

If the posting is missing pertinent details like company name, website, or location, be suspicious.

DOES THE EMAIL ADDRESS MATCH THE NAME?

Sometimes scammers use a domain name that is similar to a legitimate company to try and fool victims.

DOES THE JOB INVOLVE TRANSFERRING MONEY FROM ONE ACCOUNT TO ANOTHER OR ARE YOU BEING OFFERED A LARGE SUM OF MONEY IN EXCHANGE FOR THE USE OF YOUR BANK ACCOUNT?

Legitimate companies have their own bank accounts. In other words, they don't need yours.

ARE THEY OFFERING A LOT OF MONEY TO PERFORM LITTLE WORK OR TO PAY YOU BEFORE YOU BEGIN?

Scammers often boast huge earnings or use enticing phrases such as "Work at Home", "No Experience Necessary", "Make $1000 a week", or "Work just one hour a week." While there are certainly legitimate work-from-home and entry-level jobs, ask yourself if the rewards being offered to you are realistic.

DID THEY OFFER YOU A JOB WITHOUT MEETING YOU?

No legitimate employer will make you a job offer without having first met you in person.

DID YOU RESPOND TO ONE JOB POSTING AND THE "EMPLOYER" RESPONDED BACK TO YOU WITH INFORMATION ON A COMPLETELY DIFFERENT JOB?

If you responded to an ad for a data entry position and you receive a response about a job in which you would be paid for transferring money or signing up for "offers," you may have found a scam.

ARE YOU ASKED FOR CREDIT CARD OR BANK ACCOUNT NUMBERS?

Job seekers should not have to provide financial information or pay a fee in order to complete a job application or view job postings.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU ARE CONTACTED BY A FRAUDULENT ORGANIZATION?

If you have sent money to a fraudulent employer, contact your bank or credit card company to close your account or dispute the charges. If you have already become a victim of an online false job posting/scam, please file a complaint with the Internet Crime Complaint Center at www.ic3.gov and possibly the police.

Should you encounter any postings you believe to be fraudulent, please contact Career Services at (660) 543-4985 or careers@ucmo.edu
